

SPRING ARRIVES WITH FLAIR AND FLAVOR AT REBELLE

The St. Anthony's In-Residence Culinary Wonder Now Features Patio Seating Coming Soon: Sunday Brunch!

SAN ANTONIO (2016) – Downtown San Antonio's hottest culinary destination is turning up the heat for spring, unveiling a new menu to fit the season and throwing open the patio doors just in time to kick off its new Sunday Brunch next month. That's right: the home of the Seven Deadly Sins is expanding the flavors, flair and fun to be had at Rebelle, the flavorful destination beckoning people to enjoy fine dining at The St. Anthony, a Luxury Collection Hotel, San Antonio.

The latest culinary creation from the team behind San Antonio's acclaimed Feast, restaurateur Andrew Goodman and Executive Chef Stefan Bowers, Rebelle delivers the same unforgettable experiences that Feast is famous for. Combining creativity in design and in the kitchen, the two have mastered "experience driven" dining, creating a culinary culture that goes beyond fabulous flavors to deliver an unparalleled experience—the perfect fit for the hotel that offers the same.

Open since late 2015, Rebelle has already been included on the Texas Monthly "Where to Eat Now 2016" list, annually highlighting the best new restaurants across the state. With glowing reviews from both the San Antonio Express News and The Current, the restaurant has also been listed as one of San Antonio's best new restaurants by San Antonio Magazine and top 10 restaurants by San Antonio Express News.

Fresh Flavors to Match the Season

Rebelle's menu offers a unique sharing style and personal plate experience of overnight shipped coastal seafood and farm-fresh produce sourced from Texas' vast agricultural locales. Featuring familiar items delivered with elevated French technique, Rebelle's dishes are vibrant with flavor, and when paired with the décor, take you on an unforgettable journey.

In a nod to the popularity of the restaurant as a terrific destination to gather with friends on the way to the theater or on the way home after a show, the spring menu features more plates to share and showcases lighter fare to fit the warmer temperatures of the season, as well as the freshest produce available.

Featuring 17 shared plates, eight entrees and three unique sides, the spring menu continues the restaurant's theme of "Divide"—the plates recommended for sharing—and "Conquer"—those dishes that you'll want to cherish for yourself. Some of the new tantalizing offerings: Grilled Tamarind Soaked Shrimp, with spicy cashew butter sauce, candied cashew crumble, turmeric-pickled radishes and cilantro; and West African Red Beef Curry, with short rib, potatoes, onions, peanuts and duck egg.

Join the Rebellion at Rebelle

A New Sunday Destination and Outdoor Dining in the Heart of Downtown

Beginning April 10th, everyone can put on their Sunday best—or whatever you like to “brunch” in—and enjoy Rebelle’s new brunch service. The restaurant will serve brunch 10:30 a.m. – 2:30 p.m. on Sundays. Based on the popularity of Feast’s brunches, there is little doubt that Sunday brunch at Rebelle will be a new “must” on San Antonio’s culinary scene.

In a new addition to downtown dining, Rebelle has opened patio seating just in time for everyone to enjoy San Antonio’s fantastic weather. Open for lunch and dinner, as well as Rebelle’s new Sunday brunch service, patio seating is available to enjoy at dinner, seven nights a week, and lunch on weekdays. To reserve a patio table, make reservations for Rebelle on Opentable.com and include in the notes section that you would like an outside table.
